MR. LYON COHEN

By HERBERT J. SAMUEL

To have been able to produce a workable system out of the chaos that existed in Montreal over the question of Kashruth and similar matters of ecclesiastical authority is no mean achievement, for these are ever fertile sources of strife. To have been able to bring about a peaceful settlement of the long and bitter disputes between the opposing rabbis with their several groups of supporters required the possession to a marked degree of the gifts of ability, enthusiasm and tact.

The presentation made last week by the Vaad Hair, or Jewish Community Council, to Mr. Lyon Cohen was just and timely recognition of an outstanding piece of work which very few could have attempted and fewer still could have accomplished. The contesting claims of the not altogether harmonious sections of orthodox Jewry are not easy to adjust, and it is a tribute to Mr. Cohen's strong personality that he was able to relinquish his presidency of the Vaad Hair with the satisfaction that he had succeeded in securing peace and good understanding where such seemed previously impossible.

Mr. Lyon Cohen has worthily served the Montreal Jewish community. The mere listing of his activities for the past thirty-five years or more would take up several columns of THE REVIEW. He is able to point to not a few substantial institutions and movements that owe their existence and their vitality to his energy and his undoubted gift of leadership. Of course others share in the credit for these institutions and movements, but the fact stands out that Mr. Cohen has been able to secure the whole-hearted co-operation of all classes of men in these various endeavours. He could work with those who constitute the Vaad Hair, with those who constitute the Shaar Hashomayim, with those who direct the Federation, and so forth.

It was not complimentary to the good sense of those responsible for the annual meeting of the Immigrant Aid Society of Canada, last Sunday, that Mr. Cohen's name was omitted from the programme. Mr. S. W. Jacobs well deserved the recognition he received, but not a few of those who were present, and thousands of those who were not present, feel that Mr. Cohen's work in behalf of the Jewish refugees and immigrants should not have been passed over as it very ostensibly was. It disgusted the onlooker and reflected discredit on those who might have been expected to show a better spirit. Mr. Cohen has just recently been signally honoured by the Paris Committee of the Jewish Colonisation Association in appreciation of the work they know he has done in behalf of the immigrants. We would like him to feel that the Jewish public is not in sympathy with the sorry tactics displayed last Sunday. There are those who differ from Mr. Cohen on some questions, but they respect him none the less, as, even in the storms of controversy, he has created no real resentments.

JUSTICE

It is an anti-social act to take the law into one's own hands. Even where the law provides inadequate protection against crime, and redress for injury is difficult to obtain, the individual cannot be allowed to assume to himself the right to judge his own cause. Jewish thought has always discountenanced resistance to law. It has never approved of violent measures in attempting to remedy grievances, however harsh and severe. Government, thought it be that of a cruel tyrant, was to be respected in all circumstances. Rebellion on the part of Jews against the nations among whom they dwell has always been looked upon as a sin against Judaism. Jewish methods in the face of oppression have always been those of persuasion and appeal to reason and human sympathy. When one considers what the Jewish people has suffered it is a most remarkable fact that our record is so entirely free from all attempts at violence. This is a striking tribute to the Jewish character, and to the powerful influence of the humane and peaceful teachings of Judaism. The Jewish spirit has triumphed through martyrdom and not by force, by endurance and not by revolution.

The resort to assassination is an ugly and clumsy way of righting human wrongs. It never disposes of an evil, though it may remove an evil-doer. It mostly adds fuel to reaction and succeeds only in intensifying the oppression it seeks to alleviate. The unlovely record of assassinations in history shows that the victim was rarely personally responsible for the wrongs his death was intended to right, and that the assassin was as rarely the fit and proper person to take revenge. There is nothing heroic or noble about the assassin, and so assassination has very seldom exercised any remedial effect.

At the same time we cannot pretend to any real sense of regret at the shooting of Petlura by a Jew. Petlura was an unmitigated scoundrel. He was a fiend revelling in unbridled lust for the shedding of Jewish blood. He was unsated in the delight he took in the tormenting of his victims. He performed no service for any cause. He seized the advantage of the defenseless state of the Ukrainian Jews in the unsettled conditions of Europe, and let himself loose in the savage bestiality of his nature

THE ORTHOPEDIC HOSPITAL

By FERDINAND M. ISSERMAN

There is, perhaps, no more pitiful sight than that of a child unable to participate in the play of its fellows because of some physical deformity. Thanks to the science of orthopedics, such sights are being gradually eliminated. Through operations and treatments it has become possible to restore deformed limbs to normal functioning. In ancient times such restorations were called miracles and made possible by a mystic intervention of Deity. To-day we have discarded the primitive notion of miracles. The miracles are performed through human agency, through scientific skill, and sympathetic co-operation. The Orthopedic Hospital of Toronto performs such miracles. It cures crippled children. It fills with the strength of new life apparently withered limbs. It makes the lame to walk. It needs the assistance of the public to carry on its work effectively. It is asking the citizens of Toronto for $175,000 to wipe out a deficit, and to enlarge its activities. Will you help it continue to perform miracles? Give a handicapped child a chance to walk and share your bounty with him. Do your share for this good cause.

GOOSE-STEPPING IN CANADA

No better demonstration of the utter folly of wars can be had than present world conditions. After having engaged in a four-year struggle to end wars, to crush militarism and to make the world safe for democracy, we find ourselves in a society in which wars continue, militarism flourishes more blatantly than ever, and democracy totters everywhere. Since the signing of the Versailles Peace Treaty scores of wars have raged in Europe, militarism has made such headway in the United States and Canada that even public school children are now being goose-stepped, and democracy has been so discredited that dictators rule in Italy, Poland, Spain, and have been suggested for France, and even Great Britain.

Despite this obvious failure of the last war to attain its objectives, we are witnessing on all sides the preparations for the next. Several weeks ago Toronto was the scene of a military festival, when the militia and the various cadet corps, among them the school cadets, displayed their prowess in a series of exhibitions. The bright colours of uniforms enlivened the city. Society patronized the demonstrations, at one of which "all the thrills of war," according to one newspaper headline, were repeated for the spectators. As we read that we thought of some of the thrills of war not reproduced—the "thrill" of the mother who received the message of her son being wounded, the "thrill" of the sweetheart who learns that her lover has been killed, the "thrill" of the sister who hears that her brother has been maimed. These are the horrors behind the thrills, and about these our military leaders were silent. While Toronto was glorifying the implements of war and stirring up the interest of the populace in militarism, a group of statesmen were meeting at Geneva studying ways and means of limiting armaments and of averting the impending international catastrophe. What can statesmen accomplish in their deliberations, when the war spirit is kept alive among the peoples of the world?

We object to any glorification of the instruments of war. We object to any demonstrations which influence the military spirit. We object to martial parades and music, which arouse the fighting passion of men. We object to military drill in public schools and universities. We object to any movements which endeavour to capture the imagination of our youth and our public for the machinations of militarism. Rot is it to maintain that military drill is necessary for the physical welfare of the youth. Exercise through recreational pastimes is far more healthful and far more beneficial for our youth than the exercise gotten from shouldering arms. We rejoice that at two assemblies of the United Church of Canada resolutions were approved deploring militarism in the public school. In warring against militarism and for peace, church and synagogue can unite.

That military drill makes for patriotism is still a common delusion. The type of loyalty which military drill entails is blind, narrow and bigoted, and does not make for the highest type of patriotism. Real patriotism is neither blind nor selfish, nor self-centered. Real patriotism is the desire to see one's country stand out, because of its justice, its integrity. It is the yearning to have one's country first in social service, first in all those humanitarian movements which make for a finer humanity. Real patriotism is never arrogant and boastful. It sees in other nations neither inferiors nor potential foes. It regards them as comrades and fellows, brothers of the human family. It rejects the challenge of a Decatur, "My country right or wrong, my country," but proclaims heroically with a Carl Schurtz, "My country right to keep her right; my country wrong to set her right." Such patriotism is beautiful, noble and godly, and such patriotism is not fostered by drill with rifles and bayonets.

Of all countries, Canada is the last which needs to be stampeded into militarism. It is protected by the Atlantic, Pacific and Arctic Oceans, the veritable sentries of God. Its only neighbour is the United States, and to the eternal glory of both countries no fortress and no garrison exist on the several thousand miles of boundary

GERMAN JEWS COMPLAIN OF ANTI-SEMITISM

The biennial conference of the Central Union of German Citizens of the Jewish Faith was recently held in Berlin and was attended by several hundred delegates from all parts of Germany and a number of non-Jewish personages of high rank. Dr. J. Brodnitz, the President of the Union, emphasized in his opening address that the Jews of Germany were inseparably bound up with the Germans for a thousand years and that they believed that they served their fatherland best by remaining good Jews and good Germans. Dr. Friedrich Brodnitz spoke of the difficulties with which the Jewish youth of Germany had to contend. Everywhere they found an atmosphere of distrust and often of hatred. In spite of this, the German Jewish youth never doubted the wholesomeness of the German spirit and were willing to trust in it.

Dr. Holaender emphasized the opposition of the Union to Zionism. The Union was opposed to the creation of a Hebrew world culture. Their culture was German. They would not oppose the creation of a home in Palestine for the persecuted Jews of Eastern Europe, but they could not assist in the proposed international solution of the Jewish question, as understood by the Zionists. A resolution was then adopted to reject the plan for aiding the Keren Hayesod, although they would not stand in the way of individuals who wished to contribute to the fund.

Rabbi Samuel's Editorials

nd the nature of the debased creatures who rallied to his cry of destruction to the Jews. He had no excuse, not even an imaginary one. That he could go scot free; that he could find asylum in civilized society; that there was no tribunal to which he could be made amenable, is a sorry commentary on the distorted sense of justice that prevails in all matters pertaining to the Jews. No one could or would call him to book for his orgy of cold blooded murder of thousands upon thousands of unprotected Jews.

Nevertheless the Jew who shot him is an assassin and has added an unwelcome chapter to Jewish history. Unlike his victim, he does stand answerable to the criminal law. And that is as it should be. We do not wish to see Jews resorting to the practice of assassination in revenge for or in protest against their wrongs. We are afraid that Schwartzbard's deed will be held as an excuse for further anti-Jewish excesses, against which there are no laws that any authority cares or dares to make effective. We wish it could be hoped that this almost unprecedented act of a Jewish assassin striking his blow for a Jewish grievance might result in arousing the conscience of Christian Europe and have a sobering effect upon anti-Jewish activities. But we are afraid that the Christian press will again be almost unanimous in suppressing all reference to the sensational agonies suffered by the Jews at the hands of the vagabond Petlura and which are even still being openly advocated by the "patriots" of Poland, Roumania and Hungary.

Out in the undeveloped west where there seems to be more of the wide open white spaces to fill in the papers, that's where the English language really sees its greatest use. The attitude seems to be: why let all those words languish in the dictionary? Bring them out and use them when occasions arise, such as, for example, the Zionist conquest of the far reaches of the west. Reporters and editorial writers there are free agents. A man may take pen in hand and push it for a long, long time and all of what results will be put into print, apparently. Nothing like the effete east where verbosity is so painfully discouraged in these Jewish columns.

The Israelite Press of Winnipeg, Mr. Wilder's Yiddish paper, recounts part of the Zionist advance in phrases plenty good enough for Napoleon and what he did on the way to Russia. The two national heroes employed instead are Rabbi J. L. Zlotnick and S. J. Rodman, concerning whom the following is a mere excerpt:

> "Rabbi Zlotnick rises to speak. There is a general re-adjustment of seats, a little disorder, and then an expectant hush. All eyes are riveted on the up-standing sympathetic figure. He feels it. He hesitates a minute, finds his bearings and begins. It is not a speech, not an address, but an unfolding in a pleasing voice and with an unassuming self-assurance, of a panoramic series of picturized ideas, a showering of apparently unrelated visualized ethical concepts.
> "They are ready! Rodman knows it. Throughout the dinner, Rodman looks over his audience, sizes it up, figures, thinks: How much is this gathering worth for the Keren Hayesod? How much more can it be made to give than it is prepared to? He rises Brief, to the point. He had picked his target. It's a sure shot. The Hebrew Sick, $500. Max Steinkopf. Remember, it must be more than last year, $600. Weidmans; A. W. Myers; the Hadassahs, $1,000. Another, $1,000, $500, $300 and so it rolls on. The secretaries jot down, Rodman urges on. Does he know them all?—calls each by name—you cannot escape his vigilant eye—you must give—and you do.
> "Twelve thousand dollars, a good beginning. The local leaders give a sigh of cheerful relief; Rodman is pleased, but still hunts."

And then, continues the prolific reporter, "Zlotnick's rose-red lips open apart in a smile, as though about to bless his brethren."

Passing from those blameless, rose-red lips, there are other accounts dealing with Hadassah's spectacular advance on the western provinces. The Jewish Post, also of Winnipeg, in god-what-eloquent wording, tells how Hadassah swept through canyons of rousing cheers, American Beauty roses and Italian cutwork luncheon cloths to get those quotas. It says, too:

> "Mrs. I. Friedgut, of Regina, in a few brief remarks at the close of the meeting, expressed the hope that Mrs. A. J. Freiman's health would permit her to go on for many years, and that when she retires, the work of leadership of the great cause would be carried on by Mrs. Freiman's daughter, Dorothy, and that the Hadassahs all over Canada would be inspired by her to do even greater work than they are now doing for the rebuilding of Palestine."

Priceless lines on the establishment of the great Canadian Zionist dynasty!

Following a legal opinion that pledges to philanthropy are debts as well as debts of honour, there have been several recent instances in the States where money for charity has been collected by civil action in the courts. The American Jewish War Relief Committee obtained huge pledges which seemed impossible to collect. Through civil action the Committee finally collected $1,500,000. This established a precedent and since then three big American hospitals have followed it in the collection of outstanding pledges. The Hackensack Hospital borrowed $50,000 from the Hackensack Trust Company and assigned as collateral $100,000 in pledges. The trust company demanded the payment of these pledges as it would on any other overdue promissory note and collected more than enough to pay the amount borrowed. The Jamaica, L.I., Hospital, after exhausting every effort to collect subscriptions, sued subscribers, using the same business judgment and discretion that a well-managed business concern would use in collecting delinquent accounts. An interesting phase was the favorable reaction of the public toward the action taken by the finance committee of the hospital. Those who had made subscriptions and paid them were glad to see the delinquents forced to pay. Even those who were forced to pay had praise for the business-like management of the committee.

In every community there are subscribers who pledge with a flourish of trumpets and never intend to pay or at least not the full amount. Then there are the testy ones who pledge in a hurry and change their minds some morning when the coffee is too weak. Civil action seems to bring them to time much more efficiently than the bad opinion of fellowmen who have integrity and a sense of duty. Wherever civil action can be taken to collect debts to charity the same as any other debt it will reduce the crop of four flushers which every campaign produces and then pledges need not suffer the usual deflation when converted into cash.

TURKISH JEWS TO HOLD CONFERENCE

A conference of representatives of various Jewish communities of Turkey was convened by the order of the Constantinople Jewish community. The main purpose of this conference is to determine the position that Turkish Jewry should take with regard to the minority rights that were assured to them by the treaty of Lausanne. It is intimated that the Conference will be attended by Government officials. Another point that will be considered at the Conference will be the new constitution of the Jewish community which has been worked out in harmony with the new conditions prevailing in Turkey and which has had the approval of the Angora Government. The Jewish citizens of Turkey also had such a conference recently and decided to insist on the rights vouchsafed unto them by the treaty.

The Angora Government has decided to confiscate for public use the property of Jews who have left the various towns in order to settle in Palestine. This was done in spite of the protests of the parties concerned and the leaders of the Jewish community.

BERLIN JEWISH ELECTIONS

The liberals in the Berlin Jewish community suffered a defeat in the elections for the community leadership held recently. Only ten liberals were returned, while the orthodox element elected thirty-three members, the Zionists seven and the Poale Zionists one. The elections were characterized by heated debates between the Liberals and the Zionists.

The Hilfsverein der Deutschen Juden celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of its organization under the chairmanship of James Simon. The president of the organization, Dr. Paul Nathan, presented a report describing the activities of the society for the past twenty-five years. It was decided to raise a large fund in order to continue the work for the Hilfsverein. Before the war this organization played a most important part in the Jewish world and accomplished some very fine work in behalf of the Jews in eastern Europe.

What THUNDERSTORMS do to Milk and Foods

You very likely have noticed how quickly milk sours during a thunderstorm. Atmospheric conditions this time of year make it actually dangerous to expose milk and foods to the open air.

Dull, sultry and sudden changes of temperature make a mighty bad case against the "no-air coolers" of all kinds.

It really costs less to have the safe, sure protection at the same time the wonderful convenience—of ice.

Ice costs but a few cents a day, yet it saves dollars worth of food and prevents doctors' bills.

MARRIAGE

Ginsberg—Singer

The wedding took place at 5.30 p.m., Tuesday, May 25, at the Primrose Club, Willcocks Street, of Sylvia, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Singer, 77 Kendal Avenue, and Albert Clarence Ginsberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Ginsberg, of Winnipeg, Manitoba. Rabbi F. M. Isserman and Rabbi Gordon officiated. To the music of the bridal march from Lohengrin, played by the bride's sister, Miss Florence Singer, the bride entered with her father. The reception room was filled with white blossoms, pink snapdragon and pink sweet peas. The ceremony was performed in front of the mantel, which was banked with blossoms and ferns, and beneath two huge white bells from which were suspended streamers entwined with smilax and pink sweet peas. The bride was gowned in a bouffant frock of white taffeta and tulle. Her bridal veil hung from a coronet of pearls and she carried a shower bouquet of orchids, sunset roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Mrs. Henry Morton, of Winnipeg, sister of the groom, gowned in pale pink with corsage of orchids, was the bride's only attendant. Henry Morton, of Winnipeg, assisted the groom. A family dinner was served at 6.30 p.m., followed by a reception and dance. The bride and groom received with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morton and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Singer, the latter gowned in black lace with corsage of orchids. Later the couple left for Chicago and Winnipeg, the bride travelling in a suit of black and white with small, sand Bankok hat.

LOEW'S

"Tony Runs Wild," the latest Tom Mix production, comes to Loew's next week.

This picture gives both Mix and his wonder horse "Tony" an opportunity to appear in new feats of strength and skill and to add thrills that are new even for Mix and "Tony."

The setting for "Tony Runs Wild" is along the Apache trail, in some of America's most striking scenery, including exteriors and interiors of the ancient cliff dwellings, homes of a race long vanished.

The celebrated Box Canyon is the setting for the final act of the play and "Tony," playing the role of leader of a band of wild horses, displays even more of his unusual intelligence.

Canada need fear no enemies and has no use whatsoever for military units. YOUNG JUDAEA FINAL DEBATES

At the final debates of Young Judaea Debating League at the Zionist Institute, Wednesday evening, May 26, the Gelber cup was presented to the Hatikvah Girls, who won on the negative of the debate, "Resolved that representative, responsible self-government be given Palestine immediately," against the Philo Boys.

The Hermant cup was presented to the Queen Esther Girls, who defeated the Buds of Judah in the intermediate series. The Bnai Zion cup for the junior series was won by the Yehudah Boys by default from the Rebecca Girls. The president of Young Judea, Edward E. Gelber, was chairman.

The final Judaean mock parliament was held Saturday evening, May 29. The resolution before the house was, "That in the opinion of this house the future development of Palestine should be along manufacturing and commercial rather than agricultural lines." Representatives of the Jordan Boys, the Allenby Boys, the Hatikvah Girls, the Shomerim and the Nordau Boys were among the speakers. At the close of the discussion a vote was taken by which the resolution was defeated. Maurice Starkman was speaker; R. Sufrin, clerk; and Dr. M. Zimmerman, sergeant-at-arms.

Nordau Circle has sent in its resignation from Young Judaea.
